

“The first thing you will notice about Steve is his big friendly smile but you will just as quickly come to realize that he knows his stuff because he loves what he does. Steve helped me through a tough career transition with his support and suggestions. He also helped me to set my action plan for my new career when his counseling finally paid off.”

“I had an opportunity to attend a workshop Steve hosted, and enjoyed his sincerity, altruistic values, sense of humour and exceptional connectivity with the individuals who were present. I believe Steve would be very effective and engaging working with any individual or group, and as I have gotten to know him better, I can see he measures his personal success, by the success of individuals and companies that he has the opportunity to work with.”

“Stephen continually impresses me as a man of integrity who sincerely seeks to bring meaningful, measurable improvement to those he works with, and those he associates with. He does this not only through systems he has mastered at LMI, but also via his positive attitude and enthusiasm, which one cannot help but be affected by when in his company.”

“I recently completed a profile through LMI after meeting with Stephen. Following the test we met again to go over what the meaning of the results were. The exercise was incredible and the results were astonishingly correct. It became obvious where my strengths and weaknesses were. Most I was aware of in a general nature but through the profile each area was well defined and made it pretty straight forward what I need to work on to become better. I would recommend this exercise to anyone. Whether in business or our personal lives the results can be remarkable”

“You will rarely meet someone as genuine and as positive as Stephen. He doesn't see your glass as half full. He helps you see the amazing things you will do when you fill it. I met Stephen and after attending one of his seminars, I truly felt he would provide great mentorship and support, an expectation he blew out of the water. Stephen creates such a positive environment you cannot help but succeed. In working with Stephen, I have reduced my hours of work from an exhausting 80 hours a week to under 50 and I am accomplishing so much more. As a solo entrepreneur, he helped me get my work life balance in check. I have eliminated many time wasting habits, I am not getting stressed about workload, and as a result, I am getting more things done. All this while enjoying much more quality time with my family.

Months after his class, his enthusiastic support and genuine interest continues to motivate me. There are few people you will meet who you will consider "life changing". Steve Daniels is one of those people.”

“Stephen Daniels is an incredible facilitator who keeps you on task with flexibility in the needs of your business. He was able to assist us in developing a long term plan and create a systematic approach to reaching goals that actually works. For LMI it is about creating new routines of management and planning with an approach that considers all aspects of personal and business. I was impressed and would like to even redo the course at one point to fine tune the techniques that he taught me. We all have the skills, however he is able to bring them to the forefront and help us to use them to the benefit of the company and the individual.”

“For those of you who don't know Steve Daniels, it would be beneficial for you to take some time to get to know him. Not only has he become a good friend, but Steve is by far the best business coach there is. I had the pleasure of participating in his LMI - Effective Personal Productivity program with three other like-minded individuals who wanted to succeed in business. Steve took the time necessary and gladly went above and beyond the call of duty to make sure that we all got as much as possible from this program. And as per usual, because Steve gives so much of himself to help others, this 6 month leadership program was a huge success. I for one have made some pretty major changes in my life where both my business and my family are benefiting. Thanks to Steve and the LMI - Effective Personal Productivity program, I am on the fast track to success! I encourage anyone and everyone to participate in the program with Steve and I assure you that if you are willing to listen, read, be open to new opportunities, you will get more than you ever thought possible.”

“Steve Daniels is a phenomenal coach that has a unique ability to consistently turn negative situations into positive ones. Steve’s program has set me up for success by identifying my strengths and weaknesses as an individual. Steve taught me how to engage in continuous learning/improvement to have the “slight edge” that everyone is looking for in their profession. Thank you Steve!”

“Steve is one of the most passionate mentors I have ever met. His work with entrepreneurs and leaders is anchored in positivity and inspiration. Because he is an avid learner himself, this allows him to coach and mentor with a distinct understanding of what his learner is living at any given moment. Without judgment, he encourages his learners to dream while asserting actionable goals where required. Steve is a breath of fresh air and would recommend him to anyone looking for such a supportive experience!”
